

January/February 2014 — LEEDing the Way with Sustainable Packaging

[1]

Nestlé Waters North America is the largest bottled water company by volume in the United States. The company prides itself on its sustainability efforts, including its many LEED-certified facilities and eco-friendly packaging.

Summary:

Nestlé Waters North America is the largest bottled water company by volume in the United States. The company prides itself on its sustainability efforts, including its many LEED-certified facilities and eco-friendly packaging.

Topics:

- Best Practices [2]
- Distribution & Storage [3]
- Material Handling [4]
- Plant Maintenance [5]
- Plant Operations [6]
- Processing Equipment [7]
- Regulation [8]
- Public Health [9]
- Beverage [10]

- Food Safety & Security [11]

Medium Landscape:

Medium Portrait:

Thumbnail Portrait:

Meta Keywords:

Food Manufacturing, Nestle Waters North America, LEED Certification

Source URL (retrieved on 01/31/2015 - 9:58am):

<http://www.foodmanufacturing.com/digital-editions/2014/01/january/february-2014>

Links:

- [1] http://digital.foodmanufacturing.com/foodmanufacturing/january_february_2014#pg1
- [2] <http://www.foodmanufacturing.com/topics/best-practices>
- [3] <http://www.foodmanufacturing.com/topics/distribution-storage>
- [4] <http://www.foodmanufacturing.com/topics/material-handling>
- [5] <http://www.foodmanufacturing.com/topics/plant-maintenance>
- [6] <http://www.foodmanufacturing.com/topics/plant-operations>
- [7] <http://www.foodmanufacturing.com/topics/processing-equipment>
- [8] <http://www.foodmanufacturing.com/topics/regulation>
- [9] <http://www.foodmanufacturing.com/topics/public-health>
- [10] <http://www.foodmanufacturing.com/topics/beverage>
- [11] <http://www.foodmanufacturing.com/topics/food-safety-and-security>