

Consumer Trends: Plain Vodka Takes the Cake

MIRAMAR BEACH, Fla. (Business Wire) — While the global spirits market continues to be saturated with flavor-of-the-month flavored vodkas, updated research shows consumers still prefer the pure, unadulterated quality offered by unflavored vodkas such as the gluten-free RWB Ultra-Premium Handcrafted Vodka, the premier spirit of the Aristocrat Group Corp. (OTCBB: ASCC).

A final study of the 2013 distilled spirits market by the Distilled Spirits Council of the United States (DISCUS) revealed that non-flavored vodka accounted for 76 percent of the $5.6 billion vodka market. Flavored vodka sales, meanwhile, dipped by 12 percent from 2012 to 2013, according to industry researcher Just-Drinks.

“As a result of this consumer focus, we are enjoying great interest for our gluten-free vodka,” ASCC CEO Robert Federowicz said.

ASCC is working to build a portfolio of successful brands to compete in a highly profitable sector alongside LVMH Moët Hennessy Louis Vuitton (OTCBB: LVMUY), Diageo PLC (NYSE: DEO), BEAM, Inc. (NYSE: BEAM) and Brown-Forman Corp. (NYSE: BF-B). By handling its own distribution business, ASCC hopes to capitalize on unprecedented new brand building opportunities through Luxuria Brands, its brand management division.
