After the blog [1] we ran Monday on the lawsuit filed against ABC News, BPI Inc. — makers of lean finely textured beef — contacted us with some feedback on the image that ran with the article.

The original image is one that has been widely used to represent “pink slime,” but BPI says this isn’t its product. “It’s definitely not beef and I doubt if it’s even food,” a source from the company said in an email. “This is what LFTB looks like — since it’s beef it looks like beef.”
