

Wells' Dairy Recalls Ice Cream

LE MARS, Iowa (AP) — Wells' Dairy says it is voluntarily recalling one of its Blue Bunny ice cream products for a labeling problem.

The Le Mars, Iowa-based company said in a news release Saturday that packages of 56 fluid-ounce Blue Bunny Premium Bordeaux Cherry Chocolate Ice Cream are being recalled because the product may contain egg not declared on the label. People who are allergic to egg could have a severe reaction if they consume the ice cream.

The packages were sold at retail grocery stores in Kansas, Indiana and Iowa. The products affected are from Lot Number 40010 TTT 19115, and have a best-used-by date of Oct. 9, 2015.

The company says no customers have reported any illnesses in connection with the ice cream to date.

Source URL (retrieved on 01/29/2015 - 5:54am):

<http://www.foodmanufacturing.com/news/2014/05/wells-dairy-recalls-ice-cream>