

ConAgra Completes Oregon Potato Plant Expansion

The Associated Press

BOARDMAN, Ore. (AP) — ConAgra Foods Inc. has completed a $200 million expansion of its Lamb Weston frozen potato plant in Boardman, Oregon.

The company said Friday the addition increases its capacity for making french fries and other frozen potato products, and will create more than 100 jobs.

The addition gives Lamb Weston five production lines in two plants in Boardman. ConAgra hopes to boost exports, and the site has easy access to the Port of Morrow.

ConAgra already employs 750 workers in Boardman and another 500 in Hermiston.
