

Garment Disinfection Service

Food Manufacturing Staff

The UniSafesm Service and Product Protection Process (PPP) is a specialized hygienic laundering and handling service specifically designed to eliminate contamination threats on garments worn by employees in the food industry. The service program is based on principles set forth in HACCP and GFSI application guidelines, and identifies and mitigates risks involved with food contamination. The service is available throughout the U.S. and Canada via more than 200 service centers. Food businesses can receive scheduled pickup and deliveries, laundering, garment repairs and replacements, as well as overall program management.
